Brother and Sister Kellems

Pearson Post 4-7-44

ONE THING which most people have overlooked about Miss Vivien Kellems is the political operations of one of her brothers.

Politicos who read her lengthy anti-Administration verbal barrage aimed at Congressman Coffee figured that she was just unloading personal spleen, perhaps tied up with her unsuccessful race against Clare Luce in Connecticut for the Republican nomination to Congress in 1942.

However, the lady has a brother who is just as rabid against Roosevelt as his anti-tax sister. He is Dr. Jesse Randolph Kellems of Los Angeles, reactionary, isolationist Republican. Like his sister, Dr. Kellems has congressional ambitions. He is running as the Republican candidate for the seat of Congressman Will Rogers, jr., of Los Angeles, who is returning to the Army. Ex-Lieut. Gov. Ellis Patterson is the Democratic candidate against Kellems and, to date, has the best chance to win.

So, one way or the other, the country will hear more from the Kellems family before November is over.
